

ABSTRACT

A dynamic advance purchase admission system to a venue is disclosed by providing a computer programmable media, such as a card, readable by a card reader. Identifying characters are provided on the media and activated at a location remote from the venue to provide access to the venue when read at the venue.